5th Think & Drink "IST Alumni!" Johannes Reiter

Johannes Reiter

Stanford University

Host: Kathrin Pauser

Johannes Reiter was a PhD student in the Chatterjee group. After graduating he moved to Harvard University, where he was a postdoctoral fellow in Martin Nowak's group in the Program for Evolutionary Dynamics. In June 2017 he took a position as an instructor at Stanford University. In his research, he develops algorithms and mathematical models to study biological processes, in particular those related to the evolution and treatment of cancer. His research on metastases is funded by an Erwin Schrödinger Fellowship of the Austrian Science Fund (FWF). Johannes will talk about his research and how his career developed so far after IST Austria.
