

SUSTAINABILITY SEMINAR

October 10, 2023

15:00 pm | Online

Teun Bousema

Radboud University
Nijmegen, The Netherlands

Towards thoughtful academic travel

The footprint of academic travel is as big as the footprint of a country like Iceland. As a malaria researcher, Teun Bousema has several field study projects but is a strong advocate for reducing flights wherever possible. Monitoring his footprint from research and attending meetings, he published several papers on why we need to reduce our footprint from flying and started several actions in his institute and beyond to fly less.